Flood Insurance effective July 1

The United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has notified the Town Manager that the National Flood Insurance Act, a subsidized program of insurance, became effective in Wilmington on July 1. The new program affords a cheap insurance to home owners who live in flood plain areas. The insurance is against water, mud slides or heavy snow melts.

The program is sponsored by the Federal Government, and is in cooperation with the property-liability (insurance) industry. It affords a reasonable rated insurance program in areas which are approved by the US Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Wilmington became an area subject to such approval a year ago, when the Flood Plain zoning was adopted in Town Meeting.

Information concerning flood insurance is available from several of the local insurance agencies, or from the Commercial Union Insurance Company at 1 Beacon Street, in Boston, according to George K. Bernstein, the Federal Insurance Administrator.

During the first 30 days after a community becomes eligible for the sale of flood insurance, coverage can be made available immediately upon application. After the first 30 day period of eligibility there is a 15 day waiting period after application, and before coverage takes effect.

The new local insurance cost is $54 per hundred dollars for dwellings, and $54 per hundred dollars for dwelling contents.

Selectmen interview Assistant TM Candidates

There are not as many candidates this week as there were a week ago, for the post of Assistant Town Manager, in Wilmington. Several of those who had previously applied have withdrawn their applications during the past week, including one Wilmington resident.

The Board of Selectmen, Monday night, interviewed two of the candidates, in a meeting in the town hall. The meeting was devoted solely to talking to candidates. Town Manager Sterling Morris took part in the interviews.

No announcement was made, after the meeting.

Police cruiser collision irks selectmen

It has happened again. There has been another collision between two police cruisers of the Town of Wilmington. One of the cars was brand new, and the selectmen and town manager are irked.

A couple of years ago there was a collision on the Lowell Street, reported by the Town Crier, which was compared to a collision on the ocean, in the 1880's, between two vessels, opened the door to his car, to get operating in a fog on the Grand Banks, and both owned by the Danish Amerika Steamship Company. The two vessels each sank the other.

The collision on June 20th did not cause the two cruisers to be irreparably damaged. It occurred in the Wilmington Plaza, and there weren't many cars present at the time.

Patrolman Robert LaRivee, in the rubber in the bumper was pulled out.

The only damage to car 27 was a verbal report to Sergeant Jay

The Playgrounds are Open

TWO YOUNG PEOPLE: Bursting through a sign, opened the playgrounds of Wilmington Monday morning, in a little ceremony staged at the Glen Road School. The youngsters were Greg Ashby and David Driscoll, both of Fay Street.

Holding the sign are (left), Ralph Peterson of Drury Lane and Nancy DeWilde of Woburn Street. Mrs. DeWilde is a member of the Recreation Commission.

At right, hidden by paper, is John Belknap of Carver Avenue and Ben Colbert of Wier Street.

All these kids lined up in back? That's more troops, to run through the sign!

Irene Rogers to retire

Irene Rogers, sixth grade teacher at the Woburn Street School is retiring. A highly admired and loved teacher, the news of her retirement is being met with regret by her fellow employees.

Mrs. Rogers had been teaching for the past eight years at the Woburn Street School.

She began her teaching career in Wilmington twenty-five years ago as a fifth grade teacher in the Buzzell School. After a few years she moved to the sixth grade, a level she taught for twenty-two years. Over the years she has taught in the Buzzell, Swain, Boutwell, North Intermediate, High School and Woburn Street School.

Each year the incoming children seemed to have a somewhat hesitant initial reaction to Mrs. Rogers, but they quickly learned that they were indeed fortunate to have her as a teacher. As the year progressed the mutual friendship and respect grew, and it would culminate in June with many fond memories and a lasting respect.

She has had 25 years of devoted service to the children of Wilmington and the pupils and teachers at the Woburn Street School have extended to her a sincere wish that she can enjoy an active respite from her teaching career, blessed with good health.

Weeping Hill drainage bid

The Town of Burlington has awarded a contract for construction of drainage at Weeping Hill to Great Northern, a construction company located at 35 Winter Street, Woburn. The bid price was $42,705.

Weeping Hill, off Chestnut Street in Wilmington, but an abutment of Wood Hill in Burlington, is adjacent to the new Burlington Reservoir, and water started to flow from the hill after the reservoir was filled, a year ago.

The Town of Burlington contends that the water was flowing from Weeping Hill for years, and that the flow is not coming from the new reservoir. The position of the Town of Wilmington is that the water comes from the Burlington water supply, a position, which is buttressed by opinions of neighbors.

Construction of the drainage system will be started shortly after there has been clearance of legal formalities concerning "easements." The construction is being done under an agreement by the two towns to get the work done and then argue about who should pay the bills.

DIANE E. BURKE, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burke of 513 Woburn St., Wilmington graduated from Peter Bent Brigham Hospital School of Nursing on June 4th. Graduation exercises were held at New England Life Hall, Boston.

Diane has accepted a position at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and will be working on the Medical-Surgical Floor.

The Fifth Maine And they shot Abraham Lincoln

Elsewhere in this issue of the Town Crier there is a story that tells of the Cardinals of Massachusetts taking first place, Saturday evening, in the Drum & Bugle Corps competition in Lowell. They used to be known as the Wilmington Crusaders. Then they expanded, and took in Tewksbury youngsters and Billerica youngsters, too.

Then the corps expanded still more, and combined with the Cardinals of Beverly. It was a good thing.

The result is a Drum & Bugle Corps which surpasses all others in the Commonwealth. Saturday night, in Lowell, the Cardinals were introduced as the Cardinals of Massachusetts.

The name was very appropriate. The spectators were absolutely silent, as the Cardinals went through their precision evolutions. They deserved the First Prize which they won.

But this is to be a story of the 5th Maine.

It is a Drum & Bugle Corps from Portland, Maine, which has adopted the name and uniform of an infantry regiment from Maine in the Civil War. The uniforms, last year, were authentic, with officers wearing shoulder straps showing rank, etc. The 5th Maine, last year, won first prize.

This year the 5th Maine did not get first prize, for the Cardinals were a part of the competition. The 5th Maine was not only good, they provided some novel entertainment.

The first thing to be noticed was that in the line was a Confederate Battle Flag. One of the youngsters was asked what a Confederate flag was doing in a Maine Regiment, and he said that today, with women's lib and everything else Maine had got around to recognizing the Confederacy.

The second thing that was noticed was a young man in the uniform of a Confederate Major General - Major General of Cavalry, for there were yellow stripes down the pant legs. This was indeed a novel thing for a Maine Infantry Regiment to have.

Last year the highest rank (Union) seemed to be that of Major. This year no US Army pins were worn, other than that of Lieutenant. But, the Confederate officer in his dress uniform, was almost as glorious as JEB Stuart, and were all the accessories of his rank.

The drill of the 5th Maine was something to write home about. Union soldiers, in camp, on the field. The bugle blows reveille. The troops form up, for drill.

It was just plain a wonderful show.

Then suddenly there was another figure. Abraham Lincoln, walking silently, tall hat, and whiskers. The color guards formed around Abraham.

Somewhat, attention was transferred to another part of the 5th Maine. Then there was a shot, and Abraham Lincoln was dead.

Six of the girls in the color guard picked him up in a litter, and bore him from the field. There was absolute silence.

Then Abraham Lincoln reappeared, marching with the Confederate Major General.

It was quite a show, and earned a lot of applause.

THE CONFEDERATE MAJOR GENERAL: Inspects the Union troops.

THE FIFTH MAINE: In line. The confederate Battle Flag is prominent in this picture (The Stars and Bars). Beside it is the Confederate General, and closest to the camera is a Union Officer, but without any pins denoting rank.

YANKS DRUMMER

ABRAHAM LINCOLN: With the colors, and guards.

MR. LINCOLN PROTECTED: By Color Guards. The individual at the far right is not John Wilkes Booth, but one of the Eastern Massachusetts judges.

THE BODY IS TAKEN FROM THE FIELD.

Telephone Pioneers benefit Chronic Patients

Physicians at Choate-Memorial Hospital in Woburn are better equipped to treat patients with heart problems, thanks to the Telephone Pioneers of the Thomas Sherwin chapter.

The Pioneers of the Chapter's North council, headed by President Margaret Mamigonian of Somerville and Life Member Presidents Catherine Mullen of Billerica and William McCarthy of Lexington, recently donated a cardiac telemetry system to the hospital.

Hospital Administrator, Paul E. Downey explained, "With the system, the hospital's coronary intensive care unit will be able to monitor the heart rhythm of certain patients who are outside the unit."

"At the present time, all monitoring requires admission to the coronary intensive care unit. In many cases, the patient may require monitoring but have no acute condition which otherwise would require intensive care. By using the telemetry system, such a patient can be admitted to a general medical-surgical area and remain ambulatory, thus reducing the overall cost of hospitalization," Mr. Downey continued.

"In addition, the ability to monitor ambulatory heart patients aids the doctor in prescribing medication and treatment to correct rhythm disturbances," Mr. Downey concluded.

The donation of this cardiac equipment is part of a major community service program undertaken this year by the Telephone Pioneers under the direction of Edward C. Shinnick of Woburn, Thomas Sherwin Chapter President.

The Ipswich River

The Ipswich River, which flows from Wilmington to the sea, is a sluggish stream which at times carries an incredible amount of water.

That water creates problems, in that it is, at the same time, too much and too little, depending on where the reader happens to be.

Wilmington and North Reading have extensive marshlands. It was proposed, ten years ago, to convert some of Wilmington's marshlands into reservoirs, a proposal that could have made sense if planned earlier, but at that late date would mean flooding the high school fields, and many other places where homes had been erected. Wilmington's selectmen and Representative Cain soon had a bill through the legislature protecting the Wilmington status-quo.

Since then the planning has been for down-stream flood ponds, and a large one is being planned in an area upstream from the Town of Ipswich, together with three smaller ones. The goal is more municipal water supplies for towns within a dozen miles or so from the Ipswich. The planning includes a possible transfer of water from the Merrimack River, in 1990 or thereabouts, a date which isn't too far away.

The point of all this is that the New England River Basins Commission, with headquarters at 408 Atlantic Avenue in Boston has been conducting a study of the Ipswich, as a part of its Southeastern New England Study (SENE) of water and land management.

SENE reports that it is still thirsting for ideas.

The last workshop held in April, strongly urged more conservation of water. Those who were present did not want to see the MDC serving Ipswich River towns, and they were in favor of the large regional reservoir.

Further the residents were in favor of spending more money to achieve the greatest possible level of water quality. The preferred option calls for two advanced treatment facilities in the upper Ipswich River, and one facility would be placed further upstream to help raise low flows and thereby increase recreational opportunities during the summer months.

That sounds very much like North Reading or Wilmington.

The participants at the last meeting, according to report, were in favor of strengthening wetland protection, but were against a proposal that would have changed existing laws to establish a regional wetlands regulatory agency composed of town representatives.

They were in favor of more expansion of regional facilities. Some of the possibilities include better transportation to the North Shore area, establishment of a Salem Heights Park, and purchase of beach areas near Pride's Crossing in Beverly. SENE points out that those would be expensive, but would enhance the local economy, and further points out that inland forests should be acquired, to help preserve the natural terrain and make a long run contribution on groundwater supplies.

The SENE Study is now entering its last stages. There will be a meeting in August, for local public officials.

They there is to be a meeting in September, for the public, in which they will have an opportunity to directly examine the plans.

These meetings are worthy of the attention of the reader.

The Police Cruiser Totem Pole

The Wilmington Police Department have just got their new 1974 police cars, and it is only fair to report that they are Super-Duper Cruisers. A Super-Duper Cruiser is one with enough flashing blue lights on the roof to scare any poor, innocent motorist right through the floor boards.

So what became of the old police cruisers - the 1973 models?

The Town Manager is riding in one of them - the one that was in charge of the police sergeant who took the prisoners to court on Monday mornings. Of all the cruisers it is the one which received the least abuse.

The Town Manager's car, which of course was a 1973 cruiser, now goes to the Town Nurse.

One of the 1973 cruisers goes to the Principal Assessor, and another to the Superintendent of Highways. Which is best is hard to tell. The new Highway Department car had 48,000 miles on it, when it was transferred from the police a week ago.

So what happens to the cars driven by the Assessor and the Superintendent? They go, respectively, to the Town Engineer and the Building Inspector. Those two men, it seems, are on the bottom of the Police Cruiser Totem Pole.

This column does not know how many miles were under the hood of that new (?) car for the Town Engineer, but the one that went to the Building Inspector had only 143,000 miles.

Maybe it is he who is at the bottom of that pole.

Letter

Dear Lars:

In the Broadway play, "Life With Father" when an actor admires Father's mansion, he says, "I admire the character of your establishment." Father draws himself up stiffly and says, "I, sir, am the character of this establishment."

There's little doubt that you are one of those "characters" of Wilmington, one whose readiness to serve I fully appreciate.

You have been kind to me and to the Wilmington United Methodist Church during the eight years of my pastorate. I am confident that your kindness will continue with the leadership of the Reverend Richard L. Evans. You will find him more photogenic and one who will be extremely creative in community affairs as well as church organization.

Thank you again for your kindnesses to me. Best wishes to you in the years ahead.

Yours in His service,
Willis P. Miller

Mrs. Scott Blumberg

Karen Sue Pyne, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph John Pyne of 2 Federal St., Wilmington became the bride of Scott Blumberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Blumberg of Freehold, New Jersey, at an evening ceremony at the Colonnade Hotel, Boston on Saturday, June 22nd.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard M. Pyne of Hollywood, Florida was her matron of honor, and the best man was Alan Blumberg, brother of the groom, of Charlottesville, Virginia.

Jennifer and Elizabeth Pyne of Hollywood, Florida, nieces of the bride were her flower girls.

The bride is a graduate of Boston University. The bridegroom was a Summa Cum Laude graduate of Boston University. He is now entering his third year at Boston University Medical School.

Five Generations

THERE WAS A PICNIC. At the Joe Bradley home, 23 North Street, Wilmington, Sunday, to celebrate the baptism of Chester Bryant, in the Church of Notre Dame, Lowell. Chester had his mother, grandmother, great grandmother and great-great grandmother to help in the baptism. Chester is in the chair at left, with his mother Linda Bryant. Grandmother is next, Mrs. Jeanne Bradley of North Street, then great grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Bryant of Medford, and, to the right, great-great grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Cunningham of Cambridge. Seated in front is Kathleen Bradley Carney of Nashua, New Hampshire, and her daughter Colleen, also of the fifth generation.

This summer is no time to forget about next winter.

There's nothing like warm weather to take the edge off an energy crisis.

But by next winter you may be wishing you'd spent some time this summer getting the house shaped up.

Which is where we come in. With a Home Improvement Loan to let you take advantage of summer sales on winter items like storm windows, insulation, maybe even a new heating system.

In fact, with gas prices the way they are, you might even be considering turning your house into a summer place by putting in a swimming pool.

No matter what part of your home you'd like to improve, we're standing by with a Home Improvement Loan to help you do it.

Bantam A team has won three titles

The outstanding Wilmington Bantam A's, of the Wilmington Youth Hockey League has gone on to win three titles. They took a three to two game over Billerica Saturday morning, for the championship of the Bantam A. Spring League. The game was at the Wilmington Youth Ice Arena.

The goals were scored by Eddie Sheehan and Mike Carlin. This is the same team which last year, as the Bantam B's won the Wilmington League title and the Concord League title.

The coach is Gordie Carlin of Meadow Lane, Wilmington, a great man with the kids, who is still team spirit and sportsmanship. Two months ago he suffered a broken leg, while playing a father-son game.

Gordie has carried on on crutches, to guide his team to the winner's box in impressive victories. Their's is a terrific victory.

Key Club officers are in Houston

Two Wilmington High School Key Club members are in Houston, to attend the 31st annual convention of Key Club International. The famous Astrodome Complex is the convention headquarters.

Key Club President Willis Lyford of 187 Middlesex Avenue, and Vice President Ken Leavitt of 4 Pleasant Street left Boston by bus, last Saturday, to connect with a chartered flight from New York to Houston. They will return home tomorrow morning.

The High Schoolers are official delegates from Wilmington and the New England District of the Key Club. The six day trip was partially sponsored by the local Key Club, and by the Wilmington Kiwanis, and was arranged by L.A. Commissioner Albert Marfleet of Boutwell Street. Mr. Marfleet is the chairman of the Kiwanis Key Club Committee.

NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY GRADUATES

MASTER OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Roy P. McClanahan of 7 Marjorie Road received a Master of Public Administration degree from Northeastern University's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences on June 18th. The former Building Inspector of Wilmington, he is now the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds, a position he has held for the past several years. He plans to continue his career in public service, either at the local or county level.

ANTHONY FERRARA OF CEDAR STREET, WILMINGTON.

When Anthony Ferrara of Cedar Street, Wilmington graduated from Northeastern University on June 16 he completed a long awaited event.

His bachelor of science degree in psychology was awarded after eleven years of study.

Mr. Ferrara had worked as a carpenter for twenty-five years before going back to high school, and eventually, college. He is the director of activities for the emotionally disturbed at Eastern Middlesex Guidance Center, in Melrose, a part of the Massachusetts Mental Health.

Under his direction the center has developed a totally new way to deal with retarded youngsters.

Schools in Stoneham have accepted his methodology, and the state has granted funds to begin implementing his program in Melrose. He will be supervising and teaching school personnel in the proper use of his technique.

He is presently training graduate students from Northeastern, Tufts, Boston University and Boston College, at Middlesex.

Mr. Ferrara has also sung in a Barbershop Quartet for 26 years and has taught dancing.

He lives with his wife and two children at 13 Cedar Street.
